

Please insert the following Abstract:

--ABSTRACT

The invention relates to a system for dehulling by cylinders, in particular to a system for dehulling grain fruits. An exemplary system includes a pair of rubber cylinders arranged in a housing. The product supply is carried out with the aid of a chute in a pneumatic conveyor which operates in a pressure mode and can be embodied in the form of a conveyor tube provided with an elbow. The system can make it possible to obtain a better supply performance and reduced breaking propensity. --